

This week's mineral is talc. Well-known and loved by introductory Geology students for its easily-identifiable low hardness, talc occurs as a low-grade metamorphic mineral. The lines across the surface of this talc come