

Our erosion pin results indicate that the dune is active, and the presence of bare sand on the windward slope supports this conclusion. One previous study on blowouts asserted that vegetation is key to the rate of dune migration [2], and