

Inquisition at Zaragoza , Spain takes action against him decree by the Inquisition for his apprehension is issued at Toulouse in Paris studying medicine and working as professor of mathematics failed to meet with the young John Calvin to debate theological issues graduates from the University of Paris after studying geography and medicine may have earned medical degree from University of Montpellier edited Pagnini Bible in seven volumes correspondence with Calvin manuscript of sent to Calvin Calvin corresponded with Farel, Calvin's long time friend, advisor, and first Reformer in Geneva concerning Servetus' writings printed in Lyon

Through a letter written by the Genevan Guillaume de Trie, a cousin to the printer in Lyon, Servetus is exposed in Vienne, a French city near Lyon , interrogated in Vienne

imprisoned in Vienne escapes from prison in Vienne silver medal from Spain commemorating Michael Servetus' scientific discovery of pulmonary circulation (1969) condemned to death (in absentia) in Vienne by the French Catholic Inquisition on route to Italy he lodged overnight in Geneva but was recognized and at Calvin's request was imprisoned by the city magistrates condemned to death by Council of Geneva informed about condemnation and burned at the stake posthumous condemnation of Servetus by the ecclesiastical court and Archbishop of Vienne publication of Calvin's book,

Bainton, Roland H.

Boston : Beacon Press, 1953.

Friedman, Jerome.

. Geneva : Droz, 1978.

Fulton, John F.

( New York : Herbert Reichner, 1953.

Goldstone, Lawrence and Nancy.

. New York : Broadway Books, 2002.

Hillar, Marian.

Lewisburg: Edwin Mellen Press, 1997

_____.

Lanham: University

Press of America , 2002.

Servetus, Michael.

. Birmingham : The Classics of Medicine Library, 1989.

_____.

. Cambridge , Harvard University

Press, 1932.

Kayayan, Eric. "The Case of Michel Servetus."

8, no. 2 (1992):

117-46.

Kingdon, Robert. "Social Control and Political Control in Calvin's Geneva ." In , edited by Hans R. Guggisberg, 521-32. Gütersloh: Gütersloher Verlagshaus, 1993.

Pettegree, Andrew. "Michael Servetus and the Limits of Tolerance." 40 (1990):
40-45.

<http://www.miguelservet.org/servetus/works.htm#trinitatis>