

Tourmaline comes in many different varieties, which are often identified by their color properties.